Dear President White,

Is this information correct? Was the UofI computer system used to promote the No Super WalMart web site?

Mr. Glasebrook,

Thank you for checking on this as the university is careful to not endorse or support these kinds of issues, although private individuals may express their personal opinions on public-access BLOG sites. The UI webmaster and I have reviewed the website in question and report the following:

The assertion that University of Idaho resources might have been used to promote the NoSuperWalMart website is not substantiated by the evidence that we've seen and the post that you refer to appears to be deliberately misleading.

University of Idaho computing is not endorsing the NoSuperWalMart website nor dedicating resources to such.

We were unable to identify Lida Saskova as being associated with the University of Idaho.

The posted contact info is for an off campus address (P.O. Box 9692, Moscow)

The domain registration for the website, NOSUPERWALMART.COM, has no affiliation with the University of Idaho. In fact, gandi.net used to be Moscow.com. We found no evidence that the domain was ever associated with the university.

The "snapshot image of the DNS record" that is cited does not support the implication of the poster.

If you find information that would dispute the above, we'd surely be pleased to know about it.

Again, thank you for being alert to these kinds of things.

Hi Harvey,

Thank you for your response to my inquiry. I do have some extremely serious concerns about the validity of some of the results of your investigation. I will be available if you wish to meet personally. While I don't read code now as well as I used to read computer punch tape, I can still find interesting files without altering them or the areas they are hidden in.

You were unable to identify Lida Saskova as being associated with the UofI. However Ludmilla Saskova does work in Educational Communications. If you check with your Eastern European friends, I am sure that they will advise you that Lida is a nick name for Ludmilla. That is similar to Dave for David and so on. Surely this begs for further investigation.

<http://www.ag.uidaho.edu/departments/peronnelaphla.asp?Lastname=S&offset=5> Lida Saskova's contact information for NoSuperWalMart.com uses an e-mail address ludmilla@moscow.com.

Ludimilla Saskova UofI employee uses an e-mail address ludmilla@uidaho.edu. There is too striking a similarity to not think this is the same person. A reasonable man or professor would think that it was the same person. This is the same as looking at one thesis on line by a student attending the University of Virginia and looking at almost the same work presented by a UofI student. This item bears further investigation.

Lida Saskova's NoSuperWalMart.com contact phone number is 885-5007 (Domain information, line 8). Ludimilla Saskova's UofI employee contact number at the UofI is 885-5007, the Education Communication Multi-Media Lab. This is too similar and demands further investigation.

In the NoSuperWalmart.com contact information under person: Lida Saskova, the phone number is 208-877-1521. That phone is registered to: Lida Saskova, 1080 Deer Rd, Deary, ID 83823-8612. Check your address records.

It seems that Lida Saskova was a member of the Idaho Commission of the Arts. In the Latah County BOCC Proceedings for January 31, 2000, is this statement:

"Motion and Order to authorize submission of a QUICKPROJECT Grant application in the amount of $980.00 to the Idaho Commission on the Arts on behalf of artist Ludmilla (Lida) Saskova to avail youth of rural Latah County a (pilot) one-week video art class; service will focus on developing video production skills during summer recreation program for summer 2001; to be administered by Lida Saskova."

http://www.latah.id.us/Dept/BOCC/2000/01_31_2000_Proceedings.htm

Our County Commissioners solved the puzzle. The reasonable man would have absolutely no doubt that Lida Saskova is the same Ludmilla Saskova employed at the UofI. The same Lida Saskova hosting NoSuperWalMart.com.

EO 2001-12 is specific. The UofI does not have to actually host the NoSuperWalMart.com domain to violate the Idaho computer use law. The UofI system cannot be used for political purposes at all. Period. The NoSuperWalMart.com web domain information had the UofI phone number for a contact number. It listed a UofI employee as the POC. It is beyond reasonable doubt that L Saskova used the UofI computing system for political purposes. If you want other specific examples of how the computer use law has been abrogated by Saskova's efforts to stop a SuperWalMart in Moscow, I will supply them.

The above points are more than sufficient reason for you to approve a detailed check of Saskova's UofI assigned personal computer and other computers in the Education Communications Department she had access to. The above points are more than sufficient reason to examine her UofI computer trails to confirm or deny if she used the UofI system to send or receive information via e-mail concerning the NoSuperWalMart.com web site or if she used the UofI system to bounce information to that site. Idaho state law specifically states that internet and electronic mail may be subjected to monitoring. This seems like a good time to monitor – don't you think

I am not interested in another University Place type debacle.

Many Thanks,
Dave

Thanks, Mr. Glasebrook,

Offhand, a search of the UI directory (both electronic and print) did not show a Lida Saskova working at the UI or being a student. Some people, particularly students, can have personal information suppressed. However, a closer investigation does show a part time employee by the name of Ludmilla. We will investigate this further and get back to you. If there is something out of order, I assure you that we will take it seriously.

Mr. Glasebrook,

We've looked into this further and find no obvious instance of wrong-doing. As you know, the Blog posting that you reference could easily have been altered. The NoSuperWalMart.com domain name, as it is currently registered, has no connection to the University of Idaho and does not reference a UI phone number. ITS has no evidence of misuse of UI computing or telephone resources by Ludmilla (Lida) Saskova.

Ms. Saskova's supervisor will be contacting her directly about your allegations and, if warranted, appropriate action will be taken.

Thank you,

Harvey
